Who are we?

The Red Cedar Fly Fishers is a group of men and women with flyfishing as a common interest, dedicated to conservation, restoration and education through the sport.

As a part of the Great Lakes Council of the Federation of Fly Fishers, we are dedicated to the preservation of Michigan's abundant natural resources.

The Red Cedar Fly Fishers strive to improve and preserve Michigan's rich fly fishing heritage by educating about the sport of fly fishing to help continue the vitality and interest for future generations and by endorsing and supporting a wide variety of conservation efforts.

About the meetings

The Red Cedar Fly Fishers hold regular monthly meetings on the second Tuesday at 7 pm of each month.

Regular meetings begin with an informal social time with various members tying flies. Each meeting features a presentation related to the sport of fly fishing featuring guest speakers from around the state. The meeting is concluded with our monthly fund raising raffle.

If you always wanted to learn about fly fishing come and see us! The federating is always warm and the coffee is always hot!
